

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XX.

STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, MAY 27, 1892.

NO. 26

LIBERTY, CASEY COUNTY.

—Mrs. Cynthia Elliott, accompanied by Miss Flora Brown, is now on a visit to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Colonel Adams.

—It must be remembered that there will be another meeting of the members of the First Kentucky Cavalry, who are interested in getting up a history of the regiment, on Monday, June 6th, the first day of circuit court.

—Monday was county court day, but not much business was done and only a moderate crowd in attendance, owing to busy times. Among those from a distance were G. C. Lyon, of Hustonville, Vincent Peyton, of Ellisburg, and K. L. Tanner, of McKinney.

—On Monday night at 11 o'clock, County Clerk George A. Prewitt was aroused from his slumbers by issue license to J. F. Wall to marry Miss Frances Hatter; both of Yosemite. A. J. Giboney was then awakened and tied the knot in his usual style.

—Dan Kidd and Bud Gibony on the republican side, and J. W. Brown and E. B. Sweeney on the democratic side, are now making things lively as candidates for the nomination for circuit clerk of their respective parties. We are in hopes they will all get elected, as personally they are pretty good sort of fellows.

—J. Boyle Stone, who has fished for so many years unsuccessfully, has lately caught a number of fine perch. The only way his acquaintances can account for his good luck is that the perch have recently become so frightened at the expert angling of Godbey, Whipp, Lipe, Tarrant and others, that they crowd around his hook for safety and accidentally get hung.

—John W. Whipp, Thos. W. Wash and Judge Wm. M. Myers are off for the democratic convention in Louisville. Mr. Whipp expects to push Cleveland through in spite of Henry Watterson. Dr. James Wesley, after an extensive tour through Tennessee, Georgia, Florida and Alabama with a view of looking out a possible location, has returned to Liberty and settled down. The doctor, like your correspondent, believes Casey county to be the garden spot of the world, just because it produced two such noted men. Col. Silas Adams stopped in town on last Friday night on his way to Edmonton to make a speech.

MINUTES AND SECONDS.—Did you ever catch yourself wondering why 60 seconds make a minute and 60 minutes make an hour? In Babylon there existed, besides the decimal system of notation, another system, the sexagesimal, which counted by sixties. Why 60 should have been chosen is clear. There is no number which has so many divisors as it has. The Babylonians divided the sun's daily passage into 24 pangs, or 710 stadia, each pang or hour being divided into 60 minutes. The whole course of the sun during the equinoctial hours was fixed at 24 pangs, 710 stadia or about 360 degrees. This system was handed down to the Greeks and Hipparchus, the Greek philosopher, who lived about 150 B. C., introduced the Babylonian hour into Europe.

THE SUGAR TRUST'S GRIP.—Mr. Havemeyer says that the trust cannot advance refined sugar as it would let foreign refined sugar into this country. This is equivalent to saying that sugar has already been advanced to the limit under cover of the protective duty. Why not repeal the duty on refined sugar and compel the trust to reduce prices? Are the people of the United States interested in keeping refined sugar out of this country to help the Havemeyers shut down refineries and deprive men of work at the same time they advance the price of a necessity?

Judge Edwards' decision that a man who gets drunk whenever he gets money is not necessarily an habitual drunkard, bears upon its breath the persuasive odor of equity. The man who gets drunk only when he has the money and is habitually a moneyless man, can not at the same time be habitually drunk. Let the decision be affirmed and the defendant be sent forthwith to the Crab Orchard whisky and poverty cure.—Louisville Times.

Dr. Rainsford, a noted divine of New York, said in his sermon Sunday: "I do not think I would sell whisky, but, instead, have only beer, light wines, coffee and chocolate. I would make my place attractive, with reading-rooms, and keep them open on Sunday, only during proper hours. When the time came for closing, the blinds would come down to stay."

The longest bridge in America is a trestle work over a portion of Lake Pontchartrain. It is nearly 25 miles long. The largest and longest stone bridge in the world is over an arm of the China Sea, five miles long, 300 arches, each 75 feet high.

Dan Talmage's Sons, the great rice dealers of New York, estimate that the rice crop of this year will be 50 per cent. larger than that of last year.

CRAB ORCHARD.

—Strawberries are coming to market at 50 cents a gallon and spring chickens at $2 per dozen.

—The family of Mr. Stark Fish is rejoicing over a new president at their house. The little fellow is five days old.

—Mr. and Mrs. Moody, of Louisville, and Mrs. Moody's sister, of New Orleans, La., have rented rooms for the summer of Mrs. Ward.

—The ladies of the Christian church have their new carpet down, but owing to some trouble in getting the pattern selected, the carpet for the Baptist church has not come yet.

—Among the goods found in the hay stack near Stanford were the articles stolen from the depot at this place and although they were not in good order as when they left, all have been found.

—Mr. John Buchanan came up home Sunday evening and went back on the night train. Miss Hannah McFall came home Monday after a very pleasant visit to friends in the vicinity of Stanford. The Lancaster boys were over Sunday as usual.

—The ladies who went from here to attend the hop at London, Monday night, had a delightful time and are loud in their praise of the London gentlemen who did so much to make them have a nice time. It seems strange that a town the size of London has so few ladies who dance. Nearly all the ladies were from a distance.

—It was with deep regret that we learned of the death of Mrs. Phil Soden. She has been a patient sufferer for some months and although her death was expected her devoted husband and parents were not prepared to give her up, for death is something we can never fully realize until it takes place. But her dear friends should take comfort in knowing that her pain racked body is now at rest and the spirit has flown to the God who gave it to dwell in peace and happiness, free from all pain and sorrow forevermore.

—Mrs. Pollard is visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Pleasants. Prof. Smith left for his home in Ohio Tuesday and will return to Midway in September to take charge as principal of the public school in that place. Professor has been in Crab Orchard several years and has made many friends, who regret to see him leave, but who are glad to know he would do better by the change. He is a first-class teacher and deserves credit for doing so much for the schools in our county while in our midst. He desires us to say he left all debts paid and a good name, which we take pleasure in doing. Mr. W. T. Merince is now operator at Crab Orchard. Mrs. H. L. Steger is able to leave her room and is slowly recovering from her recent illness.

Congressman McKeighan, of Nebraska, is said to live in a sod house. This singular dwelling, which contains three rooms, is boarded over a frame-work, which is then entirely covered with thick sods. It is not an uncomfortable place of abode, for it is warm in winter, as well as cool in summer, and the danger to its occupants in case of cyclones is minimized. Mr. McKeighan is regarded by all as a very original and interesting man at Washington. He has been a farmer, a soldier and a judge, and is a ready debater, especially on matters pertaining to the tariff.

A snake has been found in Ireland at last. A Belfast newspaper says that a snake 7 1/2 feet long and nearly seven inches in circumference has been killed at Nora's Glen. It was taken to a contractor's yard in the town, where the reptile was inspected by a large number of people. The solitary snake of Ireland will be preserved in a glass case for the inspection of future generations.

"Your mother tells me that you have been playing marbles for keeps," said Mr. Figg, sternly, to his trembling son. "Is that the best use you can find for your time?"

"Yessir," sniveled Tommy, "I ain't old enough to play poker."—Indianapolis Journal.

Sister Emma—"So Fred Malcolm, praised my singing, did he?" Brother—"Oh, yes, he said it was heavenly." Sister—"Did he say that, Charlie?" Brother—"Well, not exactly; but he probably meant that; he said that it was unearthly."

Mother—Always remember, my dear that it is not good taste to talk about yourself in company. Mi's Budd—"Oh, I never do. I always talk about the other girls."—Street & Smith's Good News.

The oldest capital in the United States is Santa Fe, which was the seat of government in New Mexico as far back as 1640, and yet its population is only 6,185, according to Porter's census.

Children are not numerous in France. Out of 10,000,000 families in the republic one-fifth have no children at all and another fifth have only one child each.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Mrs. Abbott lectured to quite a crowded house last night on Japan.

—Recent indications make it probable that James G. Blaine will be the "Judge Mogrow" of the republican party in the approaching presidential contest.

—A candidate for State Senator in Indiana has withdrawn from the race, saying he cannot consistently remain in politics and maintain his self respect. This is not complimentary to the politicians viewed from the standpoint of the gentleman from Indiana.

—The uncalled for and unprovoked assault upon the business manager of the INTERIOR JOURNAL in Lancaster on Monday last, meets with the unqualified condemnation of the entire community, while his prompt and efficient defense is commended alike by all.

—Quite an animated discussion is going on in London as to the authorship of the song "Ta ra ra, boom de ay." The words of the song are decidedly vulgar, while the chorus that gives it its name is simply nonsensical. It is a question as to who is most to blame, those who admire the doggerel or the idiot who composed it.

—Miss Isabel Owsley is visiting Miss Mira Cook. Miss Bessie Burnside is with Miss Annie Royston this week. Mrs. Will Price and son, Herbert, are visiting Mrs. Dr. Price. Mr. Robert Hughes is in Louisville this week. Miss Sallie Rowland is visiting Mrs. Dr. O'Neal. Mrs. Robert Rice, of Hedgebury, is visiting Mrs. H. A. B. Marksbury.

—Mrs. Sallie Chaires, an estimable lady, died at the residence of Dr. W. N. Bush, in this place, on Sunday night, May 22, and was buried in the cemetery on Tuesday afternoon. Religious services by Eld. J. C. Frank. She was a daughter of G. J. Salter, a prominent citizen of Garrard, who twice represented the county in the Kentucky Legislature. The sympathies of the entire community are with Dr. Bush and the family and friends of the deceased.

—The handsome residence of Mrs. Ann B. Hopper was the scene of an elegant wedding Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. Amos Stout united in marriage Miss Annie Hopper, youngest daughter of Mrs. Ann B. Hopper, and Mr. E. M. Stephens, of Midtown, Texas. Miss Hopper is a highly accomplished young lady and one of Lancaster's favorite beauties. The young married couple will go to various points in the West and thence to his home in Texas.

—The New York Press has an article on "The Novel as a Teacher and Reformer." It would, of course, be like darting straws against the wind to attempt to discourage the publication and reading of the trash that has appeared in the shape of novels during the last half century. It is true, nevertheless, that since the days of Bulwer and Sir Walter Scott, 99-100 of the novels that have been published have not been worth the paper upon which they have been printed. They encourage idleness without imparting any information that is of any practical utility whatever.

—The death of Hon. Wm. Berkele on the morning of Tuesday, 24th inst., was a great shock to the people of Garrard. He had been in ill health for some months past and unusually low spirited, which resulted in the taking of his life at his home near Bryansville. He has repeatedly represented this county in the Legislature and has filled other positions with credit to himself and satisfaction to the people. As the delegate to the constitutional convention from Garrard, Mr. Berkele was faithful, attentive and efficient. He was a man of excellent judgment, fine business attainments and broad-hearted charity.

KINGSVILLE.

—Mrs. Pennybaker has at last completed her hotel and is ready to accommodate the traveling public.

—In talking to the voters of this vicinity we find that the majority are for Cleveland first, last and all the time. Hurrah for the grandest man in the U. S.

—A young lady, whose name we did not learn, living just over the Casey line, was bitten by a copperhead snake a few days since and is in a critical condition at this writing.

—Mr. Joe Baker, of Burnside, visited his brother, C. G. Baker, last week. Miss Daisy Cary has returned after a month's stay in Lexington. Ed McCarty went over to hear Bro. Barnes Sunday night. Mr. William Dalton and wife, of your town, were the guests of the family of H. Baxter Sunday. T. Waters, of the C. S., is on a visit to relatives and friends in this community.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

—The General Assembly adjourned Tuesday till Friday, on account of the convention at Louisville.

—The bill increasing the rate of taxation to 47 cents on the $100 passed in the House at Frankfort Tuesday. The Revenue and Taxation bill also passed.

DANVILLE.

—Dr. E. B. Johns, of Lexington, was here professionally Tuesday and Wednesday.

—Mr. Elijah Williams and Miss Kitty Robinson, both of the West End, obtained marriage license Tuesday.

—Gray & Harris, 4th street liverymen, have sold out to W. L. Reed, formerly of Lincoln county. Terms not disclosed.

—Work on the new public school building under Contractor Wm. King, is progressing satisfactorily. In perhaps four weeks it will be under roof.

—Messrs. Hubert McGoodwin, W. K. Argo, B. O. Rodes and C. N. Smith were among the Danville people who attended the funeral of Hon. Wm. Berkele, Wednesday.

—The Danville league team (limited) and the Lexingtons (unlimited) had a little game Tuesday evening, which resulted in a score of 5 to 3 in favor of Lexington.

—A telegram received Wednesday evening from Louisville announced that Messrs. Rodes, of Danville, and Sullivan, of Richmond, had been elected district delegates to the Chicago Convention.

—Miss Eleanor Coleman, Lexington, Miss Ruth Hall, Frankfort, Miss Nancy Beckner, Winchester, and Miss Jennie Warren, Stanford, will be the guests of Miss Marie Warren, next week and until after commencement. Miss Manie McRoberts will entertain about 30 of her young friends at her home on Broadway Friday night. Miss Blanche, daughter of Councilman Tim Murphy, who has been ill since before Christmas, is now thought to be gradually improving.

Mrs. Frank Gilcher went to Cincinnati Tuesday and will be back Sunday night. Mrs. Leonora Daviess has gone to Mt. Sterling to be present at the closing of the academy her son is attending. From there she will go to Wellesley, Mass., where her daughter's term at College will soon close. Miss Annie T. Daviess has returned to Harrodsburg. Both of these ladies have been visiting Mrs. Wm. Warren. Miss Mabel Van Meter and Miss Sue Payne, of Elizabethtown are visiting Miss Anna Van Meter, this county. Mr. James Cook, C. D. Portwood's clerk, having converted himself into one of the landlords of Cumberland Falls Hotel, will be succeeded in his clerkship by Mr. R. G. Dunn. Misses Florence Jenkins and Lizzie Dunn will entertain a large number of their friends at the home of the last named lady tonight, Thursday.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—The Southern Presbyterian General Assembly has decided to meet next year at Macon, Ga.

—There will be no services at the Presbyterian church Sunday on account of Rev. Ben Helm's appointment at Lexington.

—Dr. E. H. Pearce, of Danville, visited Rev. W. E. Arnold last Sunday and preached at the Methodist church Sunday night.

—The Kentucky Conference Women's Missionary Society will hold its 14th annual meeting at Nicholasville June 18. Rev. C. T. Read will preach the annual sermon June 19 at 11 A. M.

—Rev. W. E. Arnold will preach at Roberts' Chapel, in Casey county, next Sunday. No services at the Methodist church here Sunday morning, on account of Commencement of Stanford Female College. Preaching at night as usual.

—Brother Barnes' meeting continues to draw large crowds, especially his night services. A number have made professions since our last issue and several announced. He will preach here as long as his friends desire him and then go to Somerset, where he will hold a meeting.

Mrs. Figg—"Where is that custard I put away this noon?" Tommy—"I-I guess it vanished into the empty heir."

—Indianapolis Journal.

"Oh, mama," cried Willie, on seeing the Zebra for the first time, "do come here and see this poor little convict pony."

EGYPT OLD AND NEW.

Strange Sights and Scenes in the Land of the Pharaohs.

The Famous Old City of Cairo—Inundation of the Nile—A Ramble Among the Pyramids—The Oldest Nation on Earth.

(Special Cairo (Egypt) Letter.)
At our centennial in 1876 the Egyptian exhibit attracted great attention. An inscription in that department read: "From the oldest nation to the youngest nation." Well might the young republic with reverence and awe stand before the peculiar exhibit of the land of Cheops and Ptolemy whose noble pyramids had their origin long before Abraham went down into Egypt. An increasing interest is felt in Egypt today politically and for archeological reasons. The Suez canal is the highway to India. England cannot afford for one moment to take her eye off this great waterway which brings her many thousands of miles nearer to her splendid Indian empire. Then we are just beginning to see light upon many difficult questions concerning the history of this oldest nation. The study of the monuments is producing a scientific knowledge of the hieroglyphs. The tape line and the spade are every month bringing some new fact to light. Scholars are revising their theories in the light of these facts. The Egyptian exploration fund is enabling such men as Naville to pursue their scientific excavations with the aid of ample appliances. From Champollion and Lepsius to Brugsch, Mariette, Maspero and Naville we have a series of brilliant efforts to unravel the riddles of this wonderful land. The find of 1881, when the kings of the eighteenth and nineteenth dynasties were discovered in the Theban hills, electrified the civilized world. The discovery of the Tel-el-Amarna tablets is of even greater importance, showing that as early as the fifteenth century B. C. there was writing practiced and correspondence carried on between Jerusalem and Egypt in the Assyrian tongue. Old Egypt is not dead. Or, if dead, she yet speaketh. The noblest study of mankind is man, and man seeks to know what yonder mummy thought about duty and destiny, how he lived at home, how he traded, made love, went to war, who were his artists and poets and philosophers.

Then again, the land of the Nile is a charming resort for tourists. Every winter brain-wearyed merchants from London, Berlin, Paris, New York and Chicago may be found in steamer and dahabiyeh soothed and delighted in the tropical air of the Nile region. Clergymen and teachers and students from all climes resort to Egypt, exploring tombs, reading inscriptions. The click of the camera may be heard amid the noble columns at Karnah, for our friend, the amateur photographer, must certainly not fail to carry away interesting souvenirs of this wonderful journey. A visit to Cairo is of course the first thing in an Egyptian town. Alexandria possesses great interest. There we land and spend hours with profit; but the traveler usually hurries on to Cairo, taking a train by day in order that he may see the peculiarities of this remarkable region of the Nile delta, for the remarkable sights are well worth careful observation. The land is intersected in all directions with little canals, by which the soil is irrigated with the Nile water. The peasants, of all shades of skin, may be seen at work. Here passes a long procession of heavily-laden camels. The wide-horned black buffaloes may be seen standing up to their necks in the water, with now and then a native in nature's tawny costume astride his favorite buffalo steed out for a ride. Here and there may be seen the wretched houses of the fellahen or peasants, usually situated on a slight elevation, surrounded with conical-shaped dove-cotes and shaded by graceful palms or sycamores. As one approaches a town the trees are more numerous and the houses have domes and the minarets of the Mohammedan mosque appear, glancing white in the sunlight. In three and a half hours the express train lands you in Cairo, which the Egyptians call Masr, the old name for Egypt. Here is a city of four hundred thousand inhabitants, of which about twenty-five thousand are foreigners, principally Greeks and Italians. At the very apex of the delta it is the key of the Nile country, and one can readily see that as the seat of the old sultans and chieftains it was the center of Indo-European commerce. It is still a great market and the great exchange of Europe and Africa. While Oriental life is seen in greater purity in Damascus, and while Constantinople may surpass it in single remarkable buildings, yet for variety, contrast, color and life; for the combination of the oldest, the highest culture of Islam and the motley grouping of all nations, Cairo surpasses both.

No sooner are you landed than the cry of the donkey boy is heard in the land. These donkey drivers are sharp fellows. They have picked up a few words of English, French, Italian and German. Quick in reading men they can with almost unerring certainty size up a traveler, tell his nationality, salute him in his own language, offer a donkey, whose name shall accordingly be "Yankee Doodle," "Napoleon," "Prince Bismarck" or "Umberto," as the case may be.

Look first at this wonderful river, then take a run through the city. Afterwards go with me to the pyramids. Egypt is the gift of the river. As anciently, so now, the overflow is the source of life. Isis weeping for her lost Osiris, her tears swelling the stream, was the explanation given by the ancient Egyptians. The riddle is no longer unsolved, for the discovery of the sources of the Nile explains all. The river begins to rise about the time of the summer solstice, June 21. The water does not pour over the banks, which are a little higher than the river, but is conveyed into the land by canals. The inundations vary. Here, for instance, is a table of sixty-six inundations, of which eleven were very high, thirty good, sixteen feeble and nine insufficient. This table was taken from the official records of the Nileometer at Cairo, on the island of Rhoda, and comprehends the inundations from 1787-1800. If the river does not attain a greater height than eighteen or twenty feet the rise is scanty. If only two or four feet more, it is sufficient; if it attains twenty-four or more, not exceeding twenty-seven, it is good; if higher, it is destructive. Sometimes it has failed altogether, as for seven years in the region of the chieftain El-Mastausen, where was a seven-years' famine, calling to mind the seven-years' famine in the time of Joseph. Low inundations always cause death. Excessive inundations, on the other hand, produce, or, at least foster, plague and murrain.

The rise of the Nile is naturally the occasion of annual customs some of which are doubtless relics of antiquity. The time of the rise is fixed to the night of June 17 and is called "The Drop," because, according to tradition, a miraculous drop is supposed to fall and cause the swelling of the river. At the time of the real rise, a few days later, a crier in each district of the city goes his round and chants the indication of the Nileometer on the island of Rhoda. When twenty or twenty-one feet he proclaims: "Wefan-Nel," completion or abundance of the Nile. On the following day the dam which closes the canal at Cairo is cut, with much ceremony, and this is the signal for letting the inundation over the surface of the country. A pillar of earth before the dam is called the "bridge of the Nile," and Arab historians relate that this was substituted, at the Moslem conquest, for a virgin whom it was the custom annually to sacrifice to insure a plentiful inundation. A large boat gayly decked out, upon which the victim used to be conveyed, was anchored near and a gun was fired every fifteen minutes during the night. On this occasion rockets and other fireworks are let off, but the best, strangely enough, after daybreak. The governor of Cairo attends the ceremony of cutting the dam with the kadi and others. The crier continues his daily rounds with his former chant. Thus into all the various canals moves the water; when the inundation is complete the gates of these canals are shut down so as to prevent the return flow.

On a bright morning we go to the pyramids, a two-hours' ride westward from Cairo, part of the way through a beautiful grove of acacias. To everyone these great monuments and the sphinx are familiar. We look with awe upon this towering mass of the pyramid of Cheops, covering thirteen acres and rearing its solid form four hundred and sixty feet in the air, the neighboring one nearly as large. A very feeble conception have we of the magnitude of the work when we are told that it required the labor of one hundred thousand men for twenty years to erect the pyramid of Cheops, and ten years were consumed in building the road along which these mighty blocks were drawn. Volumes have been written about these immense structures, from exhaustive works like that of Sir Howard Vyse to the most recent magazine article. Their massiveness, perfection of architectural proportions, perfection of finish have been from time immemorial the wonder of the world. Two Arabs help us to climb these huge blocks, which are singly nearly four and a half feet thick. After mortal terror, lest the very arms shall be jerked out of your body, you stand at length upon the summit, which is a platform about twenty-four feet square, and look over eastward to the minarets of Cairo, or westward to the awful waste of the desert, or southward to the great plain of Memphis and Sak-kara, where other pyramids are distinctly visible. A visit to the interior of Cheops, in the face of flying bats and close air, must follow, when we stand at length in the presence of the great granite sarcophagus supposed to have contained the mummy of the king. Where the mummy has disappeared no one knows. AMOS W. PATTEN.

It Would Help.
She—Would that mortals were endowed with power to thrust aside the veil which shrouds the future and look forward down the corridors of time with the ease with which we gaze upon the past in retrospection. How glorious—
He—Yep! But, in the meantime, I'd like it mighty well if we'd be endowed with the power to scratch the spot on our backs which always itches about a sixteenth of an inch beyond our uttermost reach.—National Tribune.

Looked Confused.
Mother (in her daughter's bonnet)—I like that young man exceedingly. While he was in the parlor waiting for you I happened to go in and surprised him reading the Bible. The silly boy looked dreadfully confused, just as if true piety was something to be ashamed of. I set his mind at rest on that point and he seemed quite relieved.
The Young Man (at the club)—That girl is thirty years old. I saw it in their family Bible.—N. Y. Weekly.

Horrors on Horror's Head.
Alg (much agitated)—Gwacious! Have you heard that the trouble between Canebey and Checkerton has resulted in a duel?
Jack—Mercy, no!
Alg—Yaas, you should have seen them face each other, pale but intrepid. Lots were dinned; and Canebey, poor old fellow, must wear a turndown collar faw the next six months!—Harper's Bazar.

The Blind Who Won't See.
Great Expert's Assistant—There must be arsenic in this medicine you are analyzing. This looks like it.
Great Expert—No, it can't be. I am analyzing the medicine for the manufacturers, not for the public.—Boston News.

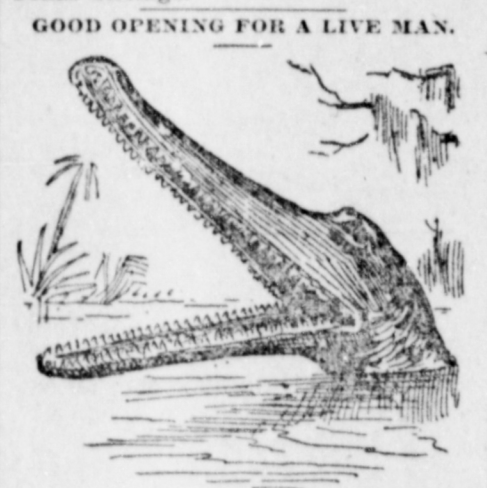

The Only Plan.
"I had a regular gorge last night at Martini's."
"Not the fifty cent table d'hôte place?"
"Yes."
"How did you manage it?"
"Ordered dinner for six."—Puck.

Heavy Bereavement.
"Black is very becoming to you," remarked a Harlem gentleman to a newly made widow.
"Yes, if my dear deceased husband had had any idea how well I would look in mourning I really don't believe he would have died."—Texas Siftings.

Friendly Advice.
Housekeeper—Bobby! Bobby! Where in the world is that boy?
Tramp—Please, mum, that big watch dog of yours just swallowed something wet looked like a boy. Maybe it wasn't, but you'd better get rid of that dog anyhow, mum, an' get a nice, quiet cat.—Good News.

He Meant All Right.
"Willie," said mamma, "tell Mary Ann not to forget to order sweetbread for lunch."
"Very well," said Willie, and then he went downstairs and told cook that his mamma wanted plenty of cake at the midday meal.—Harper's Young People.

Educational News.
First New Yorker—To what college do you propose sending your son to acquire a classical education?
Second New Yorker—To Yale, of course; haven't you read how the Yale baseball team whitewashed the Harvard twice in succession last season?—Texas Siftings.

A Queer Memory.
Mamma—Did you go see the doctor about your cold?
Little Boy—Yes'm.

Occasional Lucid Intervals.
First Club Man—Is old Guzzler intelligent?
Second Club Man—Well, there are times when he can tell ice cream from hot Scotch; but not often.—Texas Siftings.

A Question of Time.
He—Are you ever going to marry anyone?
She—It's only a question of time.
He—What do you mean?
She—Well, time is money, you know.—Jury.

A Case of Real Sympathy.
Melton—What have you done, old man; broken your umbrella?
Beaver—Yes; and I'm so sorry. It belonged to one of my dearest friends.—Judge.

Her High Standard.
Mr. Popinjay—Ain't that actress got elegant teeth?
Mrs. Popinjay—Ain't she? They're just as good as false ones.—Boston News.

The Age of Organization.
New Boarder—Well! well! This is the first place I've struck where they have preserved strawberries and peach jam instead of stewed prunes.
Old Boarder—All owing to organization, my boy. Us boarders have a mutual protective association, with iron clad rules and heavy penalties.
"Oh, ho! You kicked against prunes, did you?"

CHOICE.

CLEVELAND INDORSED,

Watterson, Castleman, McKenzie and Owens
The Big Four.

Kentucky Democrats in Council.

LOUISVILLE, May 26, 1892.

Editor Watterson has again demonstrated that he holds up the democracy of Kentucky by the tail and that he does the thinking for a vast majority of it. There is none more able and competent to do so, but as Jim McKenzie said, like all other great men he is liable to be mistaken. With fully nine-tenths of the people for Grover Cleveland, Mr. Watterson has carried his point against him by a refusal to instruct and shown his own solidity by being chosen to represent Kentucky at Chicago by acclamation. The Cleveland instruction men gave up the fight, when Long beat Bronston so greatly for temporary chairman and the rest of the business was done quickly and in order. Three of the delegates at large are for Cleveland and a majority of the district delegates appear to be for him.

The gathering of the untutored, which began Tuesday, had swelled to such large proportions by the time the convention convened that the whole city seemed full of delegates. The hotels were jammed and the lobby of the Willard presented a scene of seething, crowding humanity, seen only on the occasions that Kentucky democrats get together. Lincoln county's delegation, composed of Judge Wallace E. Varnon, Hon. D. B. Edmiston, J. H. Carter and W. P. Walton, elected John H. Miller to fill a vacancy and organized by choosing Judge Varnon chairman and Mr. Edmiston secretary. The eighth district meeting was held in the forenoon in the court-house. District Chairman McKee called it to order and was made permanent chairman. Messrs. J. R. Marrs and R. E. Hughes were elected secretaries. Balloting for delegates to Chicago showed J. A. Sullivan, of Madison, elected on the first ballot and after several others, C. H. Rhodes, of Boyle, was chosen. Madison tried to elect Yoder Poignard, without avail. F. D. Spotswood and G. W. McClure were then made alternates. The former made a good race for delegate, but the latter was not put in nomination. J. Mort Rothwell, of Garrard, was easily elected elector over Poignard, who withdrew before the ballot was through. Judge Varnon was named for committee on credentials, Judge W. E. Bell, of Mercer, on resolutions, G. B. Mosely, of Jessamine, on organization and W. F. Bond, of Anderson, for vice-president. On motion of Judge R. J. Breckinridge, Col. W. G. Welch, of Lincoln, was recommended for delegate-at-large and W. H. Anderson, of Shelby, alternate.

It was some time after 2 o'clock before Chairman John B. Castleman rapped the convention to order Wednesday afternoon, but the vast assembly was kept in good humor by stirring airs, including Dixie, by the brass band. Gen. Castleman made an appropriate speech and when he called for nominations for temporary chairman, Col. Bennett H. Young placed Hon. C. J. Bronston in nomination and John S. Rhea named C. R. Long, of Louisville. Hon. Evan Settle seconded the former and Theodore Halam the latter nomination. On a call of counties, Kenton's row caused much trouble and the regular delegation was finally allowed to vote. Bronston ran on the proposition to instruct straight out for Cleveland and Long against instructions, though claiming to be a Cleveland man. The result was that Long was chosen, receiving 427 votes to Bronston's 290. Long accepted the honor in a speech of some length and in response to calls Mr. Bronston spoke. Mr. Watterson and Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge were also called on. Mr. Watterson's speech was a rehash of his noted dispatches from Washington, while Col. Breckinridge made a red-hot Cleveland speech, which was applauded to the echo. The committees, as agreed by the district meetings, were then appointed and at 5:30 the convention adjourned till 8:30 p. m.

When the convention re-assembled at 8 p. m. none of the committees were ready to report and the vast throng amused itself by calling for speeches from various orators. Hon. James A. McKenzie responded and made a Cleveland speech in his finest vein, which was applauded vociferously. W. C. Owens also responded and made as usual a gem of a speech. Many others were called for, but the committee on permanent organization came in with its report and oratory was bottled for awhile. Hon. James B. McCreary was unanimously suggested for permanent chairman and on being escorted to the chair by Messrs. John W. Headley and Urey Woodson, accepted the honor with thanks and made a capital speech, in which he announced his preference for Cleveland, but expressed high regard for the other gentlemen mentioned as candidates, whom he eulogized seriatim. The committee on credentials, after a long wrangle, admitted the Myers delegation from Kenton, the regular one, and its report was adopted.

W. M. Reed, of Marshall, James A. McKenzie, of Christian, Col. W. G. Welch, of Lincoln, W. C. Owens, of Scott, James R. Hindman, of Adair, Wm. Lindsay, of Franklin, and John B. Castleman, of Jefferson, were put in nomination for delegates-at-large and before the convention knew what it was doing, the motion of Will Cox, of Warren, to elect Mr. Watterson one by acclamation, was made and carried with a whoop. Owens and McKenzie were elected on the first ballot by 473 and 401 respectively. On the next ballot Lindsay and Hindman were withdrawn and the most of Welch's vote, 167, going to Castleman, he was elected easily, an honor he eminently deserved.

Hindman, Reed, Welch and Anderson were chosen alternate delegates from the State-at-large. C. R. Thomas, of Bourbon, and W. R. Kinney, of Louisville, are the State electors, with S. S. Savage, of Boyd, and Rollin Hurt, of Adair, assistants.

Following are the district delegates:
First—Thos. E. Moss, R. C. Walker.
Second—Charles M. Meacham, Reuben A. Miller.

Third—John S. Rhea, W. A. Helm.
Fourth—B. F. Beard, B. L. Litsey.
Fifth—W. B. Haldeman, W. J. Abraham.

Sixth—T. C. Terrill, R. F. Harrison.
Seventh—Chas. J. Bronston, William Lindsay.

Eighth—C. H. Rhodes, J. A. Sullivan.
Ninth—Waller Sharp, J. H. Northup.
Tenth—John P. Salyer, J. M. Robertson.

Eleventh—O. H. Waddle, G. A. Denham.

Hons. R. M. Jackson, of London, was made the executive committeeman for the 11th and G. A. Denham retained as a member of the State Central Committee. Gilbert G. Garrard was named as vice-president. Senator W. J. Candill was made alternate delegate for that district.

John D. Carroll was given Gen. Castleman's place as chairman of the Central Committee and John H. Welch takes the place of Maj. McKee. The resignation of Gen. Castleman was universally regretted.

Everybody had a good word for Carlisle, but no one seemed to seriously consider him a possibility this time. Hill's name wasn't mentioned but once, that I heard, and then it received only a puny cheer. The convention was unmistakably a Cleveland gathering.

The committee on resolutions then reported, endorsing Cleveland and tariff reform, reaffirming the principles of the party, denouncing the force and McKinley bills, the demonetizing of silver by the republicans and demanding a sound currency redeemable in gold or silver. The resolutions were adopted and the convention at 2 a. m. adjourned sine die.

WE now have a stock of woven wire and slat fence made of oak pickets. Sine & Menefee.

IT continues to rain every day and yesterday it poured in torrents at intervals. Was there ever such a wet May?

"SANTA CLAUS" DALTON filled up on whisky Tuesday afternoon and spent the night in jail. He was fined $5 and costs by Judge Carson the following morning.

THE young lady graduates of the College here will wear dresses made of mull instead of silks and satins, as has been the custom. It is Prof. Hubbard's request and as a sweet girl graduate is pretty enough anyway (and the young ladies probably realize that fact) they have taken pleasure in complying with that gentleman's request.

HE SKIPPED—Al Russell, for shooting Peter H. Carter, was tried before Magistrate Smiley at Moreland, Tuesday, and held over to circuit court in $100 bond. He was tried for carrying concealed weapons and fined $25 and given ten days in jail. While his bond was being made, Russell took advantage of the opportunity and took to his heels. He has not yet been caught, but will likely be captured in time for circuit court, when he will have to serve two terms instead of one.

NEW LUMBER YARD.—Messrs. W. R. Dillion and J. T. Blankenship have opened a lumber yard at Mr. Blankenship's shop, just above the depot.

IT is correct in the fashionable world now for the escort to hold the trailing skirt of his companion of the gentler sex. It may look a little peculiar, but it is "the thing" and must be done.

ED BROWN and Tom Severt, both colored, had a knock down and drag-out, Wednesday night, when the latter came out second best. Severt was too drunk for his trial yesterday and Judge Carson ordered him to jail to sober up.

AN unusually long procession followed the remains of Mrs. Phil Soden to its last resting place yesterday, thereby evincing the high esteem in which she was held. Her bereaved husband and little son have the sympathy of the entire community in this dark hour of grief.

A. A. CRUTCHFIELD was tried before Judge W. E. Varnon Tuesday on a writ of forcible detainer, sworn out by William Landgraf, who represents the Lincoln Land Co. Crutchfield refused to move from one of the company's houses, after his lease had expired. Judge Varnon decided for the plaintiff.

A GENTLEMAN on his return from Middleboro yesterday offered a lot in that place for a year's subscription to the INTERIOR JOURNAL. The offer was promptly refused, but a kind-hearted business manager gave him receipt to April 1st, 1893, and advised him to go his way and sin no more.

THE commencement sermon of Stanford Female College will be preached on Sunday morning next at the Baptist church by Rev. A. V. Sizemore. The Annual Concert will take place at Walton's Opera House, Wednesday evening, June 1st. An attractive programme of exercises in elocution, music and fancy gymnastics will be presented. Commencement on Thursday evening, June 2d, at the Opera House, immediately after which the reception of the V. A. M. Society will be held at the College.

ANOTHER Richmond has entered the field for police judge of Rowland. Mr. J. W. Adams is the man and it looks as if his chances for getting there are good. He is a republican and will get that vote solid, and besides a number of democrats will vote for him. The present incumbent, Judge Barnett, and Mr. J. A. Chapell are both sanguine of success, however, and the race, which comes off tomorrow, promises to be a hot one. There are four tickets out for councilmen and that race, too, may create considerable excitement.

THE country around Buffalo Springs or the water-works as we now say, is cavernous and it is believed that there is a lake of considerable dimensions under the hill just above the springs. While ditching around for a foundation an opening was found from which water gushed forth freely and blind fish from two to six inches were seen. Numerous other springs have been found and those who fear that the supply of water will prove insufficient have only to go out and be convinced. By the way, things are assuming a business-like appearance and it is a question of a very short time till we will be enjoying the improvements that a year or two ago we thought not of.

THE suicide of Hon. William Berkeley, of Garrard, was a great surprise to our people and sent a pang of grief to the hearts of many of his friends hereabout. Mr. Berkeley was a genial, warm-hearted gentleman, and by his strict integrity and high honor won for himself the highest esteem of all. He was born January 1, 1826, in Hesse, Darmstadt, and 12 years later moved with his family to New Haven, Conn., where he lived until 1865, when he moved to Bryantsville, Ky. In 1867 he married his present wife, then Mrs. Mary Campbell, daughter of Benjamin Mullins, of Garrard county. He was engaged in mercantile pursuits during and for some time after the war, part of the time at Nicholasville. Since 1868 Mr. Berkeley had been successfully engaged in distilling, manufacturing the brands known as "The Berkeley" and "E. H. Chase & Company" whiskeys. Besides a widow, he leaves five children. They are Mrs. Louise Dillon, New Haven, Conn.; Mrs. G. N. Jean, of Boyle county; W. A. Berkeley, of Louisville, a member of Surveyor Collier's force, and Eugene B. and Miss Daisy Berkeley, residing at home. The three first named are by a former marriage. Mr. Berkeley was a republican, but his popularity made him many democratic votes, and he was honored by being elected twice to the Legislature and served efficiently as delegate to the constitutional convention. He leaves besides a good deal of personal property, 325 acres of land and life insurance amounting to $45,000.

THE Gilcher House, of Danville, has been leased for five years by Mr. Zan Tribble, the hotel man, and he will take charge June 15th. Some one else will run the Junction City hotel for him.

LECTURE.—Rev. G. W. Dunlap will lecture at the court house Monday night, 30th, and illustrate it with views of noted places in the Old World. Admission 25 cents. A large crowd ought to greet him.

HOP LEE, a Chinaman is here looking for a location to start a laundry. He no doubt heard of the new era that Stanford is bordering on and like a sensible man came at once so as to get in on the ground floor.

THE Willard Hotel, Louisville, whose card appears in this paper, was as usual the most popular with the delegates. It was crowded from pit to garret, but the clever clerk, A. W. Jones, always had room for one more. The Willard is the best hotel of its price in Louisville, or elsewhere.

THE Barbourville Herald says that Major E. W. Freeman, editor of the News, at that place, has skipped for parts unknown. Nothing better could be expected of a man who printed himself "Major" and monkeyed as a prohibition-republican reformer, while he pulled the bottle for all it was worth.

A. A. CRUTCHFIELD was fined $5 in Judge W. R. Carson's court, Tuesday, for using abusive language to a German. Mr. W. H. Miller was in the case and became incensed at Mr. Crutchfield's treatment of the old man and gave Crutchfield a rap over the shoulders with a cane for which the Judge fined him a "V."

MISS GEORGIA LEWIS writes: "Please state in the INTERIOR JOURNAL that my school at Willow Grove Academy will close Wednesday evening, June 1, with an entertainment, consisting of dialogues, recitations and character songs. Admission 15 cents; children 10 cents. Proceeds to be used for repairing school-house."

IN a letter from Louisville, under date of May 23, R. Lee Davis writes so outrageously about our Crab Orchard correspondent that we are forced to decline to publish his letter, in which he denies everything connecting him and Mrs. John McClure, with whom, it is said, he had been criminally intimate before his alleged elopement with her.

THE Q. & C. offers half-fare rates to the republican convention at Minneapolis, June 1 to 5, good to 26; to the democratic convention at Chicago June 16 to 20, good to July 7, and to the people's convention at Omaha June 28 to 30, good to July 22. Solid vestibuled trains. Call on agents of the road or write D. G. Edwards, G. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

SINCE the ordinance concerning dogs has been passed our merchants have had a good trade in collars for the canines. One merchant ordered 100 at one time, perhaps the largest number ever in our town before. Marshal Newland is determined to enforce this ordinance and the lovers of poodles and other species of dogs had better protect their pets or they may be ground up into bologna sausage before they know it.

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

B. F. Robinson sold to Walker, of Madison, a car-load of fat cattle at 2½c.

J. H. Swope sold to Allen, of Anderson, a bunch of fat cattle at 2½c.

Beazley Bros., bought of Miller Broadus a lot of 75-pound hogs at 3½c.

William Moreland bought of various parties a lot of butcher stuff at 2½c to 3c.

There are 5,000 registered trotters in Germany, 150 of which have records of 2:16 or better.

Givens & Carter bought of various parties a car-load of cows and calves at an average of $27.

It is estimated that about 30,000 horses were ousted from street car service last year by electricity.

Forty-two yearlings from Kentucky breeding farms were sold in New York for $60,880, an average of $1,590.

Fifty-three thorough-bred youngsters from the McGrathians stables, Lexington, were sold in New York publicly for $80,000, or $1,300 each.

Young Charley Fair, of California, son of the bonanza millionaire, has paid $60,000 for ten horses, giving $30,000 for Yo El Rey, a two-year-old, and six yearlings.

M. F. Elkin bought of T. C. Coulter a lot of hogs at 3.62½; of Bailey Hill a couple of butcher cattle for $47.50 and of James Dudderar a lot of heifers at 2½c to 2½c.

Master Commissioner R. A. Burnside sold publicly yesterday the farm of J. M. Phillips. Dr. J. B. Owsley was the purchaser and paid $30 per acre for 150 acres containing the house and $15 for 100 acres of unimproved lands.

It is a somewhat singular coincidence that Rollo, 2:28½, the first yearling pacer to beat 2:30, Manager, 2:11½, the champion two and three-year-old, and Strong Boy, 2:12, the fastest four-year-old pacer, are all gray in color.

The first car-load of this year's crop of wheat was shipped from Delane, Cal., on the 22. The grain was grown near Poso, Kern county. For two years' past Kern has furnished the first grain of the season and this year beats all previous records by four days.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Marriage license was issued Wednesday for the marriage of George B. Prewitt to Miss Mamie, the pretty and accomplished daughter of Mr. B. B. King, of the West End.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

—William H. Vanderbilt, aged 21 years, son of Cornelius Vanderbilt is dead.

—Mr. Alex Julian, of Frankfort, well-known by some of our people, died of heart disease Wednesday.

—Died, at the home of her father, Mr. W. H. Dudderar, at Rowland, May 24, Mrs. Phil Soden. She leaves besides her husband one little boy. Mrs. Soden had suffered for more than a year with that fatal disease, consumption, but had been confined to her bed only about two months. We offer to her husband and relatives our sincerest sympathy, as only those that have suffered a like affliction can truly sympathize with those bereaved in this way. Mrs. Soden was loved and admired for her many adornments of character, united with a graceful person, making her death more than usually sad. The funeral services were held at her father's residence, conducted by Rev. John Bell Gibson, at 9 o'clock, A. M., Thursday, after which the remains were interred in Buffalo Cemetery.

Sired by Rienz 1492, trial 20, full brother to King Rene, 1st dam Chance by Tom Stamps 1713, record 2:40, out of the dam of Red Wilkes; 2d dam Chubb by Bourbon Chief 281; 3d dam Chubb, by St. Lawrence, Rienz 1492, by Belmont 1491, 1st dam Blandine (dam of King Rene 1275, Swigert 650, etc) by Mambrino Chief 11; 2d dam Burchmore (dam of Rosalind 2174, by Brown Pilot, Tom Stamps 1713, by Abiallah Pilot 208; 1st dam Queen Dido the dam of Red Wilkes 1749, sire of 25 in '30 list) by Mambrino Chief 11; 2d dam by Red Jacket, sire of Comet, Bourbon Chief 281 (sire of Calmar 222) by Mambrino Chief 11; 1st dam Puss, by Grey Eagle. 2d dam by Sir Peter. An analysis of IngeLOW's pedigree reveals a rich inheritance of performing and producing blood, there being three direct crosses of Mambrino Chief. His sire is a full brother to King Rene and the sire of his dam is a half brother to Red Wilkes. He must be seen to be appreciated. He will stand at Liberty, under the management of G. W. Frye, at Lexington Denmark is claimed to be one of the handsomest and most beautiful horses in Kentucky. This combination produces the best combined horses in the world and those which command the best prices in all Eastern markets. Any one will have to see him to appreciate his greatness.

I will also stand the splendid young jack

Imported Hidalgo.

Imp. Hidalgo is 5 years old, black with white points, 15½ hands high and will stand at $10 to insure a living colt, due Oct. 1, 1893, or when mare is parted with.

CONVENIENT HOGHOUSE.

Some Ideas Which Will Be Useful to Breeders of Hogs.

To raise good hogs and make pork making profitable it is essential that the buildings and appliances be well arranged and kept in good order. No mud-hole with a few rails around it and some boards over one corner will serve the purpose. The building for a limited number of hogs should be 36 by 12, with a passageway 4 feet wide along one side, and it should be divided into six apartments, each 6 by 8, which communicate with one another by means of sliding doors, and with the outside by either hanging doors or doors opening outward. The partitions should be solid and about 3 feet high. A plan of such a building is shown at Fig. 1.

For a larger number of hogs the building may be enlarged proportionally, and if desirable a corncrib may be built along the front to facilitate feeding. The entire building should be raised off the ground about 2½ feet and bridges should lead to the running ground in the rear.

There is nothing more annoying in hog raising than the usual rush and scramble for the monopolization of the trough, by which means the weaker animals are always crowded back, and the runt always remains a runt.

Fig. 2 shows a very good contrivance for preventing this, insuring "equal rights" to all, and as the owner of such a pen remarked, "It is an excellent device for teaching a hog good manners." It is a solidly made swinging door, reaching across the front of each division. The upper crosspiece to which the boards are nailed is a scantling cut round at the ends so as to work freely in a 2-inch hole. This door, when unconfined, swings directly over the center of the trough. The trough, A, Fig. 3, is made of 1½ by 10-inch hard wood material and is fitted closely between the stanchions which support the roof, while resting on the end board is a somewhat triangular shaped board, B, which serves to give greater solidity to the trough and closes an opening which would otherwise be made by drawing the swing door forward.

The swing door, Fig. 2, is supported at one end by a solid block, A, firmly nailed to the upright, while at the other end the block is in two sections, the lower part only being made solid, the upper part being fastened to the stanchion by means of a coach screw. This part is made movable and can be pushed aside as in Fig. 2. In the center of the swinging door is a strong wooden bolt, B, whose construction may be readily seen from the design. This is made to work neatly but easily, and is shot into a corresponding hole in either side of the trough, thus retaining the door in the desired position. An iron handle is attached by means of which the bolt is worked, while at the same time it serves to draw the door backward or forward. The door is pushed back and bolted, leaving the trough clear as at C, Fig. 2. When in this position the slops may be poured in from the passageway without even the slightest annoyance from the hogs inside. It is then drawn forward as at D and the greedy animals take possession.

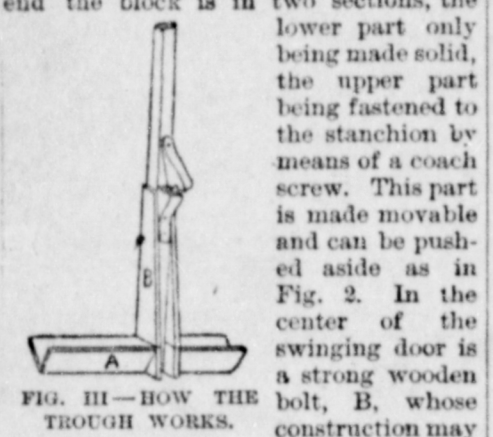

FIG. 3—HOW THE TROUGH WORKS.

The fact that the entire building should be raised off the ground will admit of an elevated platform, Fig. 4.

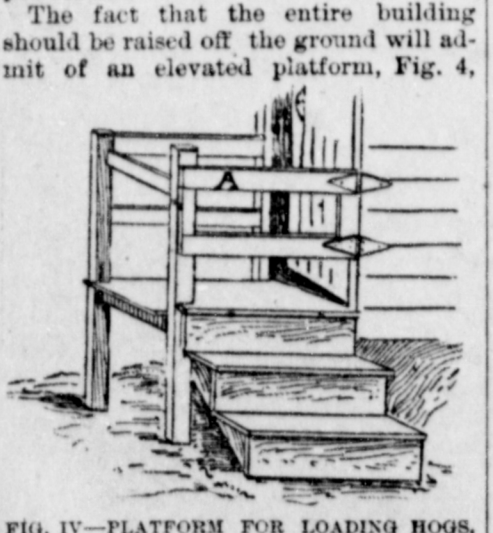

FIG. 4—PLATFORM FOR LOADING HOGS.

placed at one end of the house. It should be substantially made and have a gate, A, at one side. The gate bears a hook and when not in use is folded back and fastened to a staple in the wall.

To remove hogs from the pen close the gate and back the wagon with its rear end squarely against the end of the platform. The movable block, E, Fig. 2, is then pushed aside and the swinging door is then easily removed. The hogs may then, without the least difficulty, be driven along the passage and directly into the wagon with not one-tenth the vexation of loading from an open pen.—James M. Shull in Rural New Yorker.

It is gratifying to know that the nut-ton market has kept up well this spring. Supplies were light early in the season.

DRAFT HORSES AT FAIRS.

Contests Which Will Make Them Interesting to the Crowd.

Suppose the stake offered equal to that offered for the trotting race, with similar rules as to entry fees, forfeitures, etc., and a draft contest arranged in place of a speed contest and advertised upon the big posters with bold faced type, would it not be competed for and would not entry fees and increased gate receipts reimburse the society for its venture? The idea may be best presented for consideration and criticism by giving in detail the classes to which it would be applicable.

Take a state fair for consideration and for smaller fairs scale down the prices according to their resources. If it offer a prize of $200 for the different races, offer a like sum as a prize in the sweepstakes and aged stallion classes for draft horses, and specify that other things being equal the stallion drawing the heaviest load shall be awarded first premium, the second, third and fourth falling in like manner to those entitled to them. Offer a like prize for draft teams walking a mile with a load of two tons and for teams trotting a mile with a load of one-half ton, the test in each case to determine the award, other things being equal. These contests to be judged, timed and recorded on much the same plan as the trotting races.

This plan will doubtless be met with many objections. It will not be approved by owners of draft stallions that they consider too fine to ever wear a collar or strain a muscle in proof of the claim that they are draft horses. The man claiming to have a superior draft stallion to prove it by making him trot. Why not prove you have a superior draft stallion by making him pull? The test will not harm either one and it is as impossible to tell by mere appearance whether a horse has great strength as it is to tell whether one has great speed. Others will ridicule the idea of trotting races for draft horses as something absurdly foreign to their line of usefulness, and scort the notion of cultivating speed where strength is the essential point.

Yes, power and endurance to handle the heavy loads seem to be the desideratum. But in the question of economic draft time is always a factor, and the team that can move the greater amount of freight between two points in a given time, as a week or a month, is the best. So the draft team, par excellence, must not only have strength and endurance, but speed—the fast walk for the heavy load, and the lively trot for the light loads and empty return trip.

Breeding for heavy draft alone will give us slow, heavy, sluggish animals, while if we try to counteract this tendency by cultivating activity, sprightliness and nerve, not only will the heavy ones be more economical draft horses, but the lighter ones, of which there will always be a good many, will better fill the bill for handy, agreeable business horses.

The greatest danger to the draft horse is not that he will not be big enough, but that he will not be good enough. So the assertion seems warranted that races, and tests involving activity as well as strength, are for the best interests of the heavy horses and their breeders.—A. W. Haydon in Breeder's Gazette.

Spring Chickens.

Now is the time when the poultry keepers need to be on the alert. April or the early part of May is not early to get chickens out, whether intended for the Thanksgiving or Christmas market, for exhibiting at fall fairs or winter poultry shows, or intended to be kept to furnish eggs next winter while the high prices prevail. But more important than early hatching is the keeping up a constant growth through the summer and fall. They need food abundant and varied in kinds to make this growth, and they need it regularly. A hearty feed "now and then" is not enough. See that they have enough three times a day, one of those times being as early in the morning as they are stirring, and the other just before they house up for the night, with the third about midday between the two. While they are small, and before they begin to roam about in search of insects and green food, give five feeds a day, or food once in two hours. Do not give food of a fattening character, but vary it. Do not allow them to crowd one another in the pen nights, and see that there is pure water and clean gravel for them to have free access to. Take especial pains to keep all vermin away from them. Lice kill more chickens every week than do hawks, owls, skunks and weasels combined.—American Cultivator.

Live Stock Points.

June is the month in which to breed for fall pigs.

Fall pigs do best when farrowed in September.

If the lambs are not doing well wean them early and let them have good pasture along with oats, oil cake and bran. If, however, they are thriving, they may run with the ewe as long as it is profitable without weakening her down too much.

Use only soft twine for tying wool. Binding twine cuts wool.

The weaning time for lambs is from early in May till the middle of August, according to the age and condition of the lamb.

Potatoes fed to a cow will increase her flow of milk.

Why is not a draft horse race prepared as one of the attractions for fairs this fall? There would be quite as much fun in it as in a race between thoroughbreds.

Hogs running on clover pasture should have besides a grain ration.

Peas in the northwest make an excellent food for hogs. The best time to turn the hogs upon the green pasture is when the peas are in milk.

Give Glabner salts to pigs, which are constipated. Mix it in milk. The dose is one-fourth to a half pound for a grown hog, and less according to size.
